Thomson Reuters Expert to Speak at Compliance Week Annual Conference

New York, N.Y., June 3, 2009 – An expert from Paisley, the governance, risk and compliance (GRC) business unit of Thomson Reuters and the recognized industry leader in GRC solutions, will provide insight into current practices for managing corporate GRC at an upcoming industry conference. Compliance Week 2009, held in Washington, D.C. from June 3 to 5, is the signature event for corporate financial, legal, risk, audit, and compliance officers.

At the conference, Mike Rost, vice president of marketing for Paisley, along with Susan Panzer, managing director of global enterprise risk and audit at Computershare, will jointly present an implementation case study—Embracing a Common, Integrated Approach to Audit, Risk and Compliance. Their session will explore the value gained from taking an integrated approach to GRC and share the experiences of Computershare.

“We are pleased to present alongside the leaders of the SEC, DOJ, FASB, S&P, and the U.S. Deputy Attorney General at this important industry event,” said Tim Welu, senior vice president and general manager of Paisley. “Attendees will have an opportunity to learn about our integrated approach to governance, risk and compliance, and hear firsthand how a Paisley client has achieved greater transparency and efficiency in managing their audit, risk and compliance processes.

Thomson Reuters will also showcase the industry-leading, comprehensive functionality of its Paisley GRC solutions and its Checkpoint regulatory content solutions at the conference exhibit forum. Demonstrations will include Paisley Enterprise GRC®, their flagship GRC solution for enterprise customers; Checkpoint, their market-leading research and productivity system; as well as GRC on Demand®, a Software as a Service (SaaS) based GRC solution for small to mid-market organizations.

Recognized throughout the industry as the leading provider of integrated GRC and regulatory content solutions, Thomson Reuters solutions have helped hundreds of organizations unite internal audit, risk, financial controls, and compliance processes.
